GRAF ZEPPELIN ON LONG FLIGHT TO CUBA

MANY CANDIDATES SECURE NOMINATION PETITIONS

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Behold — the hard-boiled traffic cop!

* * * *

May Allah decrease his tribe.

* * * *

He toils not, neither does he weep. To him the world is a tough proposition.

* * * *

Hour by hour he sits on his white steed — thinking.

* * * *

And in the words of Shakespeare — "He thinks too much. Such men are dangerous."

* * * *

Day by day he gives chase to scores of motorists, enroute to dinner, supper, to a wedding or an accident.

* * * *

And to all pleas of excited drivers, he turns a deaf ear.

* * * *

Such poetry of motion, such beauty of action as he writes out the pink tag.

* * * *

And such dash, such eclat, as he draws up with the dying moan of his siren and barks at the driver, "Where yuh think YOU'RE goin'—to a fire?"

* * * *

And with such a bored expression he listens to alibis, to pleadings.

* * * *

He represents the majesty of the law—and is well aware of it.

* * * *

May all his children be printers.

* * * *

But, seriously, some of these traffic officers whom you hear so much about aren't as hard boiled as you would imagine.

* * * *

There is one officer on San Pablo avenue, who has a reputation for being 'hard boiled.'

* * * *

But we find that this "cop" is what is known as a "good Joe" when you talk to him.

* * * *

Handsome traffic cops seem to abound in Contra Costa county.

* * * *

Which all reminds us that science has estimated that 50 per cent of the people married in California are men.

* * * *

Which all goes to prove that science is a wonderful thing.

* * * *

In fact, it can be rated along with the correspondence schools that offer courses in French, Hungarian and what have you.

Extradition popers have been issued by the State Department at Washington, and the sheriff was believed to have left Mexico City today in search of Fleagle.

Ride Victim Will Tell All

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—UP—Accompanied by two automobile loads of armed federal officers, an ambulance brought Mrs. Grace Berri to a hospital here late today. Mrs. Perri has been technically arrested as a "material witness" while authorities of the government and Marin county continue investigation into the killing of Melville Sturtevant, star witness for the government in a recent liquor conspiracy trial here.

The woman was transferred from a Petaluma hospital, where she was taken a week ago tonight and has been recovering from a bullet wound in the right lung, which was inflicted at the same time Sturtevant was shot.

Precautions were taken to protect Mrs. Berri on the trip here because she has made a new and lengthy statement to prohibition agents which is said to contain information about large rum-running interests.

An attempt to hasten the arraignment of Vincent Lucich, who surrendered the day after the shooting and was charged with first degree murder at San Rafael, failed today.

CALFEE WILL ENTER D.A. CONTEST

The campaign for county and township officers was formally opened yesterday as May 28 is the first day under the law that candidates for office can start the circulation of their nominating petitions.

According to the announcement of County Clerk Jasper Wells, all petitions must be filed in his office by noon, Saturday, June 21.

The primary election will be held Tuesday, August 26, 1930.

Petitions Sent

The county clerk has forwarded petitions to all those now holding office, both county and township, as it is understood they will be candidates to succeed themselves.

There is one exception as no petition has been placed in the hands of District Attorney Tinning, as he has announced he will not be a candidate for re-election.

From petitions that have been taken out, there are indications that there will be active contests waged for at least two offices, and it is possible that before the time limit for filing petitions arrives, that other candidates may announce themselves. There are rumors that there will be additional candidates but nothing atngible has developed.

Calfee Files

In the district attorneys contest, both of the candidates will seek election for the first time. Petitions for this office have been taken out by Attorney Tsar N. Calfee of this city, and James F. Hoey of Martinez.

For the office of coroner the present incumbent Aubrey Wilson has taken out his papers. He will have as his opponent Dr. A. B. Hinkley, who is also circulating nomination papers.

In filling the offices of justice of the peace and constable for the different townships, there is every indication that there will be candidates galore.

Sa'ary Increase

The increase in the salary of the justice of the peace of the fifteenth township (Richmond) to $350 per month ,and $70 per month for office expenses has attracted new candidates to the fie'd. For this position Police Judge C. A. Odell and Attorney John Moore have secured petitions, and are in the contest. The present incumbent Arthur Alstrom will seek to succeed himself.

Another interesting contest is in the offing in the Tenth township (San Pablo). Justice of the Peace L. F. Grover wi'l run for re-election. He will have as his opponents Henry C. Soito and Peter Garrity.

Petitions Issued

Other nominating papers have been issued by the county clerk to the following: Charles Quinting for constable at Concord; C. Stibbel of Rodeo for justice of the peace; Charles Schwake for constable at El Cerrito; P. Meserve for constable at Crockett.

Frank Wilson former deputy sheriff, who resigned a short time ago, has secured a nominating petition, but for which office he may run have not been definitely announced.

Louis E. Davis of El Cerrito has also secured a petition for a friend but refused to inform the county clerk by whom it would be used.

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, May 28.—UP—The Graf Zeppelin flew along the northeastern coast of Brazil tonight on a 4,500 mile northward journey from Pernambuco to Havana, Cuba., and Lakehurst, N. J. It was expected to reach the Cuban capital sometime Saturday and Lakehurst Sunday, making its fourth visit to the United States.

The German airship left here at 11:13 a. m. (9:13 EST). Its departure was delayed more than three hours because of a rainstorm. Weather reports from points to the north were not entirely favorable, but Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander, said he had no doubt the Graf would conquer any storms on the way.

At 2:20 p. m. the dirigible passed over Natal at the easternmost point of the Brazilian coast.

Just before leaving Eckener told friends and newspapermen he expected to return to Pernambuco probably in September, when the Giquia airfield should be completely equipped to handle the Zeppelin. BOBBY JONES IN WIN OVER C. TOLLEY

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 28.—UP—Bobby Jones sat on a grassy hillock beside the famous first green at St. Andrews this afternoon, which was the nineteenth of his match with Cyril Tolley, and chewed nervously at his taped fingers as he watched the British amateur champion prepared to putt.

The Atlantan, who is making his most formidable bid for the one important national title which thus far has eluded him, was properly nervous, for if Tolley's putt went down it meant a continuation of the match and the most serious obstacle in Bobby's path to victory.

Tolley ,strapping, black-haired Briton, pipe clenched rigidly in his teeth ,studied the putt with unusual care, for Jones had laid him a dead stymie and had a sure four for a win.

Jones Wins

Bobby nibbled at his finger-nails Tolley attempted to jump the stymie with a niblick, missed and the match went to the American, who thus became the oustanding favorite for the British amateur golf title.

Jones' victory in the fourth round, achieved by such a slender margin over the defending champion, featured a day which saw one more American Walker cup player —Roland MacKenzie of Wilmington, Del.—eliminated and four others successful.

George Voigt, George Von Elm, Harrison R. Johnston and Francis Quimet all won today and entered the fifth round of the championship

One Left

Douglas Grant of New York and London was the only other American survivor from the field of 27 which started play Monday. Fourteen Americans were eliminated during the first two day's play and seven more fell today.

Frank Sweeny and J. B. Gwaltney of New York, Roland Saunders of Miami, Fla., and W. G. Forargue Aberdeen, Wash., lost in the third round competition while Roland McKenzie, F. C. Stevens, Jr., of Hollywood, Cal., and H. V. Brower of New York and Paris were eliminated in the fourth round.

Today's matches cut the original entry list of 272 to 32 players. Fifth and sixth round matches tomorrow will pare the survivors to eight players for the quarter and semi-finals Friday. The championship match wil be played over the 36-hole route Saturday.

All of the American survivors, except Voight, won two matches today. Voigt reached the fourth round Tuesday and met only one opponent today.

SECRET SERVICE AGENTS RAID COUNTERFEIT PLANT

NEW YORK, May 28.— UP — Crashing into a room on the top floor of a Brooklyn apartment building, seven federal secret service agents this morning captured one of the most ingeniously devised counterfeiting plants on record, along with $1,000,000 in spurious bills.

It was a staggering blow to big time crime, and the second such blow to be delivered here over a period of 24 hours.

While $1,300,000 worth of glittering jewels, all presumed to have been stolen — were resting in police commissioner Mulrooney's safe, at headquarters, the federal men crept up the stairs of the Brooklyn apartment and hammered down the doors, nabbig three men, caught working over the lithographing plant from which they had already turned out a sizeable fortune in currency.

Bills Found

The bills already engraved were stacked in neat piles in the room. They were of $50, $20 and $10 denominations .The $50 bills had the likeness of Madison; the twenties carried the pictures of Grant and the long face of Andrew Jackson was stamped on the tens.

The counterfeiters used a large plate, which printed 2" bills to the sheet. Each time their big press turned over $540 in currency was printed — three $50 bills, 15 twenties and nine tens.

Arrested in the room were Pericle Mannerini, said to be the organizer of the counterfeit ring; Joseph De Negros, reputed to be the financial backer of the venture, and Matteo Mattera, who bears the ominous appelation of "the Doctor," and who, federal men said, was something of a wizard at the art of turning out suprious currency.

Raid Made.

The counterfeit money could not be detected as spurious without the closest scrutiny, it was said. The counterfeiters were just preparing to start distribution of a million dollars worth of the paper when the raid came, according to the agents.

The counterfeiters had sufficient equipment, such as expensive paper and inks, on hand for turning out at least $5,000,000 or more in false bills, it was said.

Meantime, victims of gem robberies during recent months were visiting police headquarters today, scrutinizing the store of jewels seized yesterday in the safe deposit boxes of four banks, and from a gang of alleged thieves in a New York hotel.

Many Gems.

The gems taken from the bank vaults are valued roughly at a million dollars, while $300,00 more worth of fancy jewelry was taken in the hotel room raid, in which five persons were taken in custody.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney, with the aid of scores of detectives who are working on the case, today was attempting to link attempted murder, banditry, burglary and other crimes with the robberies in which the confiscated jewels were taken.

Mrs. Louis W. Herman of New York, examined the two batches of gems today and picked out 11 pieces which she said were stolen from her at the Hotel Ambassador, Palm Beach, last February. One of the pieces she identified was a $40,000 diamond.

Robert G. Nelson, the 52 year old, pudgy, red-faced man who was arrested in connection with the $1,000,000 worth of gems in storage in bank vaults, declined to talk with questioners today. He admitted at the time of his arrest that he is an habitue of the eastern race tracks, and that as sort of "walking pawnbroker" he bought most of the gems at these sporting resorts.

STANDARDS IN BARREL HOUSE VICTORY

Oaks Defeated By Portland In 2nd Game

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—UP—Leaders of the Pacific Coast league stumbled and fell today, Sacramento, Oakland and Los Angeles taking beatings.

The Angeles could have gone from third to first place of the circuit if they had kept the lead they held from the second to the eighth inning. But in the first of the eighth "Fuzzy" Huft, left fielder for the San Francisco Missions, pounded out a home run with one base to give the Missions, a 4 to 3 victory.

After scoring four runs in the first three innings, the Senators weakened and Seattle trounced them 14 to 4. The Indians made nine of their runs in their last three times at bat.

When Williams, Portland left fielder, hit a home run in the fourth inning with two on base he scored the winning run. The Beavers won by a score of 5 to 4. In the fifth inning Oakland made its best bid for victory, Lombardi, catcher, hitting a homer with two on.

The game between Hollywood and San Franciscos' Seals was postponed until Saturday on account of wet grounds.

BAD PITCHING BLAMED FOR WILD GAMES

SAN FRANCISCO, May 27.—UP—It isn't what's in the ball, it's what is on it.

Or better still, what isn't on it announces "Radiant Red" Killifer veteran manager of the Missions, in explaining current orgies of hitting in the Coast league.

"Bad pitching," Red says, and Red should know. Too, it seems that logic is on the red one's side. Baseball manufacturers insist that the ball is made according to the identical specifications of last year and even have flouted the point raised later that perhaps the same yarn was wound more tightly. The yarns, they announce, are wound by machines that can't vary. For that matter, it is pointed out, were the same quality of wool string—and the quantity is measured—wound more tightly around the core the result would be a smaller ball; one that would flounder in its hide cover like Jackie Coogan in one of Marie Dressler's negligees.

Commenting upon some of the slugging saturnalias which have recently made ball games into riots, like the 36-hit debacle recently staged in San Francisco when every one took a cut at the ball except the groundkeeper. Red said, he had never seen such terrible pitching as this year's crop.

"Don't get the idea I'm moaning because my club hasn't been winning," he said. "The Seals haven't fared a lot better.

"They looked like a crowd of sandlotters because of the pitching before they went to Los Angeles, where Jacobs, McDougal and Miljus turned in beautiful work for three wins against Hollywood.

Ulceration Of Stomach

By DR. G. A. ESTERBERG

The round, perforating or simple ulcer is usually single and occurs in the stomach and duodenum. Out of 1669 cases collected by W. H. Welch and examined post mortem, 40 percent were in males and 60 per cent in females. In females, the largest number of cases occur between the ages of twenty to thirty. In males, between thirty to forty. It is by no means uncommon in old people. On the other hand, it is not very rare in children. One case was reported in an infant 30 hours old.

Ulcers have been known to follow a blow to the stomach. It is frequently associated with anemia and clorosis, particularly in women, and in association with menstrual disorders. In clorotic girls, a considerable number occurs.

These ulcers may occur single or may be multiple. The most common place for the ulcers is on the upper and back part of the stomach. In small intestines the ulcer is usually in the first part of the bowel just outside the pyloric ring of the stomach.

Large Size

The gastric ulcer reaches an enormous size It is sometimes spread over a large part of both anterior and poterior walls of the stomach In the healing of the ulcer if the mucous membrane is also involved, the healing occurs at the edges and floor, leaving a smooth scar. In large ulcers which have become deep and involves the muscular coat, the scar tissue may cause serious changes, the most important of which is narrowing of the opening of the stomach into the small intestine, and sonsequent dilation of the stomach. In ulcers, of both the anterior and posterier walls of the stomach, hour-glass contraction of the stomach may be produced.

It is possible that large ulcers may persist for years without attempt at healing.

Among the more serious changes that may proceed in an ulcer are the following

Great Danger

Perforation — Fortunately in a majority of cases, adhesions form between the stomach and adjacent organs. Particularly with the pancreas, the left lobe of the liver and the omentum.

Of the anterior surface of the stomach, adhesions do not so readily form, hence the great danger of the ulcer in this situation, which more readily perforates and excites a difuse and fatal peritonitis.

Should the ulcer perforate the posterior wall of the stomach, it may produce an air-producing cavity, and abscess, with the symptoms of a condition known as phrenic pneumothorax. Fistulous communication with the large intestine, may also occur. The pericardium may also be perforated, and even the left ventricle of the heart.

A hemmorrhage may take place in a newly formed ulcer or in the ulceration which takes place at the base of the chronic form it is in the latter condition that the bleeding is most common. The most usual bleeding takes form in the small curve of the stomach. Fatal bleeding may take place if the hepatic artery is perforated.

The first symptoms may be those of perforation. In other cases, for months and years, the patient has dyspepsia and the ulcers may not have been suspected until the occurrence of the sudden hemorrhage.

The symptoms of stomach ulcer are: dyspepsia, which may be slight or trifling or of a most aggravating character. In a considerable proportion of all cases you feel sick to your stomach, and you vomit, the latter not for two hours or more after eating. The vomit usually contains a large amount of hydrochloric acid. Herrhage is present in at least half of all cases. It may be slight, but commonly is profuse, and may be in quantities and brought up so quickly that it is fluid, bright red in color and quite unaltered.

Nert week will be a continuation of "Ulceration of the Stomach."

Organized Women Meet Cancelled

The meeting today of the Organized Women has been cancelled, it was announced last night by officers of the club. The next meeting will be held on June 12.

College Boys Play Hoax On Party Leaders

WASHINGTON, May 28. —UP— A statesman's lot is not a merry one. He must be careful about everything he does, and one his last bits of freedom — the right to please constituents by writing glowing testimonials, was further endangered today.

Democratic Senator Harrison of Mississippi, brought this out by having read to the senate a story of the hoax which two Cornell university editors perpetrated on vice-president Curtis, labor secretary Davis, and various other republican leaders.

Republican and democratic senators alike laughed uproariously as the clerk read excerpts from the glowing replies from Curtiss and Davis to an invitation from the Cornell boys to a "sesqui-centennial" dinner in honor of the mythical "Hugo N. Frye," described as the founder of the Republican party.

Later in the day a House member asked a correspondent about the responsibility of a well known non-partisan woman's organization, which had asked him for a testimonial, indicating that the members are watching their letter writing more closely than usual, and investigating those who request praise and help.

This is the second college hoax which has caused embarrassment recently. Another eastern college paper published a statement from President Hoover some excerpts from a book he wrote years ago, which were interpreted as saying the people needed guidance in governing themselves. The White House officials were somewhat disturbed, and a partial repudiation of the publication was given out.

Vice-president Curtis' reply congratulated the republicans on paying respects to the memory of Frye, 'pioneer republican of Elmira.'

Secretary Davis was quoted as saying "It is a pleasure to testify to the career of that sturdy patriot who first planted the ideals of our party in this region of the country."

The development makes more ticklish than ever the question of the republican party's birthplace as a topic of public discussion, for several cities in Wisconsin, Michigan and New York have been disputing for years over the honor of originating the republican movement 75 years ago.

Troop No. 4 Entertains Pythian Lodge

Following a short business meeting of the Knights of Pythias in the Brotherhood hall last night, Troop 4, Richmond Boy Scouts entertained the members with a drill and stunts.

The troop, which is under the direction of Scoutmaster John Motell, also gave the oath to five new tenderfeet Scouts.

Following the program the boys were guests of the lodge at a banquet.

During the business meeting, over which William H. Long presided, it was announced that H. C. Donnolly had been appointed lodge deputy at the recent grand lodge session in Sacramento.

REPORT MADE ON TRADE MEET

The foreign trade convention in Los Angeles was reviewed at yesterday's meeting of the directors of the Richmond chamber of commerce in talks by P. M. Sanford, president of the chamber; Edward Horton and Walter Thomas, the two boys who went as delegates from the Richmond high school.

Horton and Thomas thanked the directors for making the trip possible and said they had acquired information of inestimable value from the addresses at the convention.

The two boys, and Audra Wilson and Lois Hutchinson, the girls who accompanied them, will make their formal report to the student body on the trip at an assembly at the school this morning.

Sanford said the convention was one of the most inspiring business conferences he had ever attended.

The chamber of commerce and the city of Richmond will join in a complaint before the Interstate Commerce Commission regarding the joint rail and water rates to the interior northwest, according to decision reached yesterday. City Attorney T. M. Carlson and Frank Chandler will be on a special committee at the request of W. W. Scott, chairman of the chamber's traffic committee, to prepare and persent the complaint.

Scott said Richmond has long been at a disadvantage in these rates compared with the other cities on San Francisco bay and that negotiations had been under way for some time in an effort to bring about an adjustment. He said both the rail and water carriers have agreed that the lower rate should apply to Richmond, but have been unable to agree on the proper adjustment between themselves. The filing of the formal complaint would make the Interstate Commerce Commission the umpire and would bring about the desired result without creating any strained relations between the city of Richmond and the carriers.

A Fast Moving Romance of the Race Track

RICHARD ARLEN

IN

"Burning Up"

WITH MARY BRIAN

Talking Comedy "Hot & How"

—BUY FOX WEST COAST SCRIP BOOKS—

ACTION THRILLS IN RACING PICTURE

Real moving picture action, combined with clever dialog, is the treat in store for patrons of the Fox California theatre when "Burning Up" Richard Arlen's first starring picture comes here today for two days.

"Burning Up" is a romantic drama with lovely Mary Brian as Arlen's sweetheart, and four of the most popular character men of the screen in important supporting roles.

A. Edward Sutherland, whose recent successes, "Fast Company" "The Saturday Night Kid" and "Pointed Heels," were received here enthusiastically, made this picture. Sutherland is the wizard of the new method in motion picture entertainment. His stories all move quickly from situation to situation, from climax to climax, and the dialog is worked naturally into the action. Sutherland believes that motion pictures first should depict a story in action and that dialog is the crowning touch that makes the people more real.

Arlen is fortunate in his first starring picture. His role calls for the same, clean-cut characterization which has endeared this youthful actor to American picture audiences. As the story opens, Arlen is unwittingly mixed up with a gang of crooked promoters. He falls in love with Mary Brian, whose father is to be the victim of the promoters' scheme. Arlen discovers the frame-up, and, in a thrilling climax, which introduces some exciting automobile race track sequences, defeats their purpose and wins the girl.

Francis MacDonald, Sam Hardy, Tully Marshall and Charles Sellon, four well known and well liked character actors, are in the cast. Macdonald was recently seen as Arlen's rival in Nancy Carroll's "Dangerous Paradise," and he repeats his brilliant acting of that role for his part in "Burning Up."

MITCHELL HELD DRYEST OF DRY

WASHINGTON, May 28.—UP—Attorney General Mitchell was termed 'by far the dryest attorney-general we have ever had" by Deets Pickett, research secretary of the Methodist board of Temperance, prohibition, and public morals before the senate lobby committee today.

Pickett denied the board tried to raise a religious issue in the 1928 anti-Smith campaign and also asserted that all of the speeches made then by Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of th organization, were in Methodist churches.

He also told the committee of the board's card-index of all members of congress, listing their religion, wet or dry record, but not his private drinking habits if any, his fraternal affiliations and other connections. This information is kept confidential, he said. It is obtained from the members themselves.

Under committee questioning, Pickett said "most Catholics were wets" so when he found a congressman of this religion "it raises a question as to his dryness."

Pickett was excused at the end of his second day of testimony and the committee adjourned until next Wednesday when Bishop James Cannon Jr., of the Methodist church South, is scheduled to appear.

Alfred E. Smith was opposed by the board on the prohibition issue only, Pickett said, commenting that "millions of women' prayed for Smith's defeat "because they were opposed to the saloon." The board looked upon the issue as moral, not political, he added.

RECORD CROWD SEES FILM OF JUNGLE

"Ingagi" the marvel travel picture of the African jungles, which has been attracting capacity crowds to the Richmond theater the past two days, will be shown today and tomorrow, according to an announcement by the management.

Last night's presentation of the stupendous travelogue drew nearly as large a crowd as it did the opening night, Tuesday, when patrons were turned away at the doors.

Those who have witnessed the epic picture have been loud in their praise for the film, declaring nothing to compare with it has been seen in Richmond for some time.

As a result of its popularity it has been held over for the Friday show.

Pupil Returns Scholarship Loan Fund

The Richmond P. T. A. council now possesses a scholarship fund of $820.30 due to the return of a $230 loan by a student who has been receiving a college education through the aid of this scholarship, according to Mrs. Gunnar Soderblom, president of the council.

The fund is being maintained by 13 local organizations, each of whom contributed $10 a year.

The following letter was received by Mrs. Soderblom from the student who recently returned the $230 loan.

"Through the opportunities made possible by the aid of the scholarship fund, the most cherished ambition in my life has been realized and whatever I now would try to say in thankfulness for this kind help would fall far short of the very profound and lasting gratitude which is felt. It has been a wonderful trust to hold and I am most happy to return this loan with the hope that another student may likewise know the privileges and opportunities made possible by the aid of the scholarship fund."

Where angels fear to tread The King of Jazz rushed in.

Universal Studios in Hollywood tremble . . the screen world watches. Three million dollars, cold cash, of Universal's money is sunk in two recently released pictures. Carl Laemmle, Jr., twenty-two year old Universal general manager, risked the entire Universal bank roll on the turn of two cards.

Twenty-two-year-old Carl Laemmle dared.

King of Jazz proved he was no fool. Hollywood tongues were wagging. Paul Whiteman, king of jazz, was imported from the East by Universal to do a picture. The first attempt was failing miserably. Universal stood to pose a fortune. Whiteman was chaffing to go back to New York.

Carl Laemmle dared . . to propose that another fortune be spent . . on the Whiteman spectacle . . proposed that the greatest talent the many continents offered . . be brought to Hollywood. He dared to propose . . that a real director of stage spectacles be brought from New York.

So John Murray Anderson came from New York. He took over the reigns . . as director he had one campaign. Hit—hit—hit—drive yourself, performers . . feel the audience . . set them afire . . hit—hit—hit!" Anderson made them "feel for the audience" just as they would on a New York stage.

And John Murray Anderson dared . . suggest to the powers that be . . that color photography had been atrociously handled. He swore he would not photograph mad reds . . slashing blues . . shrieking greens. He dared . . import his own stage designer . . dared design his sets in soft pastel shades.

King of Jazz killed the word "revue". Revues are now stale and dead. The jerky atrocities from other days shrivel in the blinding sun of King of Jazz. The people of the world now may see what the fortunate few of New York alone have witnessed—and produced on a spectacular scale that will stun New York.

King of Jazz revolutionized color photography. It is the mark toward which other producers of color films must shoot.

Laemmle and Anderson rushed in where angels fear to tread, and carved themselves a niche in screenland's hall of fame, with King of Jazz.

When The King of Jazz flashed on the screen at the preview, Universal officials realized that for the first time they were witnessing color art. King of Jazz color effects were as far removed from color predecessors as Corot from the cave dwellers.

Kite Flying Destructive

ABERDEEN, Wash., May 28—UP—Kite flying for years considered a harmless pastime of youngsters at the spring of the year, has been the cause of so much trouble to Grays Harbor Railway and Light company, that an appeal has been made to kite fliers to confine their activities outside the city.

The power company claimed that the kites took sudden dips on the blusterous March winds nose dived and became entangled on the power wires. More than a dozen kites have had to be hauled down by firemen.

Siamese Twins On Freak Egg

PORTERVILLE, May 28.—UP—Frank Bright was curious to know whether a double-yoked egg would hatch, and so he tried it here.

A twin-yoked egg from a Rhode Island Red hen was used. It hatched in regulation time, but the chicken that emerged was of the Siamese twin type. It had two bodies joined at the side, two heads facing in opposite directions and four legs.

As one-half of the chicken walked forward the other half had to walk backward. After three days the effort apparently was too much, and the chicken died.

MAN ORIGIN BELIEVED FOUND

BERKELEY, May 28. — A new theory on the orgin of man has been propounded by Dr. Ralph Chaney, noted archaeologist.

The cradle of man has been placed as on the west coast of North America and the northeastern part of Asia by Dr. Chaney who is a research worker for the Carnegie Foundation, and a member of Roy Chapman Andrew party, which unearthed the banes and fossilized eggs of dinossaurs in the heart of Gobi desert, Asia.

This startling new theory replaces in interest thoae that early man lived in the heart of Africa, the Nile and Gobi desert.

Each theory as it has been advanced has gripped the public with interest, and now Dr. Chaney submits his theory for consideration after several years of arduous exploration and study.

Early man roamed the Pacific slopes of North America and not the valley of the Nile as archaeologists of the University of Chicago claim Dr. Chaney believes.

Modern counterparts of tree fossils, discovered in Oregon as belonging to the Eocene age 40,000,000 years ago, were discovered in Central America and Panama by Dr. Chaney, who recently returned from an expedition into that territory.

From this discovery, Dr. Chaney has graced climatic changes and their effect on plant life in substantiation of the new theory.

Dr. Chaney said he was satisfied that tropical plants now growing in Central America once had bloomed along the west coast of North America and also in northeastern Asia.

He said that his research work had disclosed that these regions were once without frost and had an unusual rainfall of at least 100 inches. This was long before the ice age, he said.

The theory is now being advanced that in this region plants originated and maybe it was the region of the origin of man, himself.

"While near Eugene, Ore., a few months prior to my trip to Central America, I found fossils proving that the climate of that region must have been at one time the same as the present climate of southern Asia and Central America," he said.

"In the last named region I found at least 25 kinds of tropical vegetation, clearly shown to be close living relatives of the plants represented by those Oregon fossils of the Eocene age of 20 to 30 million years ago."

Dr. Chaney said thus it followed that at least the western half of Oregon at one time had a climate of the warmth and moisture of Central America and southern Asia of today.

It was probable, he said, that the same condition existed in California, although thus far fossils to show it had been revealed only near Santa Barbara.

PAVER MUM ON EL CERRITO "BRIBE"

OAKLAND, May 28—While witnesses were being summoned to participate in another Oakland paving graft trial, District Attorney Earl Warren was today attempting to solve the mystery of the receipt of $975 in currency by Councilman Phillip Lee of El Cerrito. The trial which will begin tomorrow is that of Dwight and Hardy Hutchinson, leading east bay contractors.

Lee's story of receiving the package containing the money, and his subsequent return of the currency was corroborated by John A. Miller Richmond postmaster, Mrs. Olga Lee, wife of the councilman; and Carl E. Bagley, El Cerrito merchant. According to the testimony the package was returned to George A. Green, Jr., paving promoter for a construction company.

Green refused to answer any of the district attorney's questions on the ground that an answer might tend to incriminate him.

Fred Caudle, cashier of a Richmond bank testified that the signature on the postal receipt for the returned currency was like that of Green, and declared that Green had deposited a check of the construction company for $13,500 and immediately drew out $5625 in cash.

Andrew Shevlin, 199 Terrace Drive El Cerrito, also testified today, declaring that the paving laid by the construction company in front of his house had developed large cracks and the concrete had crumbled. He also admitted he had been fined $200 for biting a piece out of Lee's car in an altercation over the official acceptance of the El Cerrito paving.

J. F. Smith of Berkeley delivered testimony that whiskey and wine had been served freely on th El Cerrito pavin job. He was employed by the company according to the testimony, while a resident of El Cerrito.

Smith declared the wine and whiskey were produced by Green and also testified that two city paving inspectors had frequently been under the influence of liquor. Of one of them, a man called McMichael, he testified "I never saw him sober except twice."

Aimee Band Leader Wants To Come Back

LOS ANGELES, May 28.—UP—A feud that had its start when Aimee Semple McPherson bobbed her titian locks has ended and G'adwyn Nichols, bandmaster who seceded from Angelus temple wants to come back.

Nichols has made overtures to Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, the evangelist's mother, for his return to the flock, she said today. Nichols, who since his departure with an indignant flock, has been pastor of the Church of Philade'phia here, confirmed the announcement.

The bandmaster appeared more interested in Christianity than coiffeurs right now. He said that he wanted to show a "true Christian spirit" in his personal feelings toward Mrs. McPherson. It was indicated that he might be back at the temple after Mrs. McPherson returns from her Holy Land tour.

350 Indicted In Chicago Liquor Drive

CHICAGO, May 28.—UP—A federal grand jury indicted 350 Chicagoans, most of them well known hoodlums, racketeers and gangsters today on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

Federal agents said the indictments named the greatest number of persons ever accused at one time in the United States of prohibition law violations.

Ralph Capone, brother of the notorious "Scarface Al," headed the list of those named under provisions of the Jones "Five and Ten" law. He was cited in two separate true bills along with several employes.

Another Jones law indictment was aimed at an alleged south side gang headed by John Bernardi, prominent member of the Italian colony. The indictment accused him and his associates of running a wholesale distillery and winery.

All of the 300 indicted face a maximum sentence of five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $10,000 if found guilty.

500 ATTEND HIGH SCHOOL CONCERT

By JAMES SMITH

With the classical strains of Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony" and the tender melody of "O Dry Those Tears" and the lament of "The Vacant Chair" still echoing in their memories, music lovers of Richmond returned homeward from the annual Richmond Union high school concert last night greatly impressed by the musical talent of the local high school pupils.

An innovation in high school musical programs was presented by the high school orchestra in the [illegible] movement of Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony". The orchestra was directed by George Morris. Other numbers presented by the band were: "Ballet Egyptian" by A. Luigini and "Bowl of Pansies" by Jules Reynard.

More than 300 pupils participated in the girls' and mixed choruses on last night's program. The girls' chorus was directed by Grace Timmons. It sang the following numbers: "Wind Music" by Wilson; "O Dry Those Tears" by Teresa del Riego; "Rose of the Morning" by Hartley Moore; and "Sweetheart Land" by Charles Heriot.

The mixed chorus was directed by Louise M. Robinson. The following selections were presented: Barnby's "Sweet and Low" "The Blind Plowman" by Clarke and "Espana" by Charbier-Waldtnefel.

The varied program concluded with selections by the Richmond Union high school band under the direction of George Morris. The feature of the band presentation was "The Vacant Chair," in which Edward Hill, Jr. played the baritone theme. Other numbers presented by the band were: "The Bandolero" by Clement and selections from the musical comedy "Junetime" by Fulton.

More than 500 listened to last night's annual Richmond Union high school concert.

A la mode

Paris sets the styles in women's dress for the world. London is the arbiter in matters of dress for men. But, New York and Chicago, Boston and San Francisco and hundreds of smaller cities and towns throughout the United States may know what are the latest styles even before they are shown in Paris.

A seeming paradox, but true. Merchants maintain representatives in Paris, London, Vienna and other European style centers, who cable the latest news of the modes, and ship samples long before they are sold abroad. In America, the news is translated into advertisements and printed by local newspapers thruout the United States. And so, American women are able to dress in the latest styles in dress more accurately than the women of any other country on the face of the globe.

Advertising keeps you abreast of the times in other ways. It tells you of the newest and best in every line of merchandise. It keeps you posted on what other people are doing and wearing and using. Read the advertisements. They are truthful and helpful. You can depend on their accuracy, for the reputations of the merchants sponsoring them guarantee their integrity.

Read the advertisements to know what is going on in the world of merchandise.

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

While There's Life, There's Hope—Even for Lovers!

MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

IT TAKES, a young man's fancy—well Tennyson describes its detour. And every woman knows that a young girl's fancy is likewise turned in the direction of love—

You'd think that, given two sexes with but a single thought,
Then two hearts—each two of hearts—would beat as one—
Alas, they don't!
Many a girl is cherishing an unrequited, unrecognized passion
For some perfectly commonplace youth—
Who, in his turn, very likely is giving a rush
To another girl who can't "see" him at all
Except as an escort when nobody better offers.
It is supposed to be a hard-boiled, unromantic age.
But every little while the New York newspapers print a true story
Of some lovelorn man or maid who tries—perhaps with success—to End It All
Because of a disappointment in love.
Just the other day, seventeen-year-old John McCormick jr. of Brooklyn shot himself
After pretty Margaret Johnson gave him back his ring—
Having pleaded vainly with him to believe
That she was not receiving attentions from other boys.
John told her, so she told the police, that she'd be sorry—
And a minute later the distraught young lover put a bullet through his head.
Such news incidents as this must make the sympathetic woman wish
That New York would follow the lead of Paris,
Where, according to a recent despatch, there is to be founded
A Life-Saving Institute for the Lovelorn.
Clement Vautel, noted French author, is heading the movement
For the prevention of fatalities among the victims of love.
His idea is to organize a corps of experts in human nature and in the psychology of the tender passion,
On whom a young man may call
When he seriously contemplates jumping off the bridge, or hanging himself.
Because La Belle Dame Sans Merci has turned him down.
Other equally efficient and sympathetic experts will deal with the heart-broken heroine,
Who is sure that life without love is not worth living,
After the boy to whom she has given her youthful devotion
Shows all too plainly that he doesn't want it!
It is whispered that the general tenor of the good advice to be dispensed
At the Life-Saving Institute for the Lovelorn
Can be summed up in one sharp phrase:
"You've had a lucky break!"
It's a great line—
If only the luckless lover can be made to believe it!
What can be worse than not only to love but to MARRY some one
Who hadn't the courage to say, in time, "I DON'T love you!"
An unrequited affection, even a broken engagement,
Is a clean break, compared to the gangrenous infection
Of a marriage with love on only one side.
So we're all for this coldly realistic reminder to desperate lovers
That they could be a whole lot worse off—
Only, we'd like to add the more optimistic sentiment
That, even for luckless lovers, while there's life there's hope!
For, no matter how badly they feel, the day will come—
If they stay alive and wait for it—
When they will forget their sufferings.
The period of convalescence is amusingly and accurately described
In the wittiest and most charming of the spring novels, Anne Green's "The Selbys."
Says a wise friend to Barbara, this book's unhappy, love-crossed heroine:
"You will feel like this for a month, then for another six weeks,
"Because you won't want to forget your grief too early,
"Widows cling to their weeds for the same reason for an extra six months,
"Or at any rate lots of them do.
"Then some morning you will wake up feeling very gay.
"You will wonder what has come over the world.
"Then you will gaily clap your hands and yell,
"I know, I'm not in love,
"I don't care for any one, hourray!"
"Then shortly afterward you will begin all over again.
"Only this time you may have better luck."
That is the natural, normal progress
Of an unhappy lover of either sex in an unfulfilled love affair—
If he or she will give time a chance!
So may all girls and young men remember, this spring,
That if fancy, lightly turning to thoughts of love, turns into no thoroughfare,
If love is scorned, blighted, reduced to suicidal desperation—
Yet there are a lot more springs coming,
And one of them is only a year away!

HOW TO SHOW HIM

THE WOMAN OF IT: I enjoyed your article on what a woman does with her time all day at home. You gave an excellent description of what I do on Wednesdays. But I call Wednesday my "day off," because on Mondays I wash, on Tuesdays I iron and mend, on Thursdays I clean upstairs and Fridays I clean downstairs. Saturdays are spent hauling home the week's food supply and Sundays are devoted to entertaining company.

At that, I don't call myself a hard-working housewife. I have a very small family and I use canned goods and bakery cake without batting an eyelash. But how about my neighbor, who does all that I do for a family of seven children? Or the woman up the street who has four very little children? She does all her own bread baking and dressmaking. What I'd like to know is how do they do it all—and still keep smiling?

If you are so unfortunate as to have the kind of husband who can't understand what you do around the house all day—just leave him with the baby, some day, and go out. Don't cook for the occasion the day before, and don't make the beds before you go, either. Just go, that's all. If he has a very bad case, kiss him goodby and say, sweetly: "While you're home to-day you'll have a good chance to wash the car and grease it." But (if you value your life) when you come back, don't ask him whether he did! L. N. S.

Removing Grease Spots

A GREASE spot on a fabric will gather dust as long as it is allowed to remain, so it is advisable to remove grease spots as quickly as possible.

Chalk of magnesia, in cake form, will be found a convenient absorbent for grease but if you prefer a liquid use Benzine, gasoline or carbon tetrachloride. These are safe solvents to use on most fabrics.

Place an absorbent pad under the cloth and apply the cleaning fluid with a soft absorbent cloth, the idea being to dissolve and blot out the grease spot.

A DISH A DAY

One reader writes me that all in her family are so fond of strawberries that they are disappointed at this season if they don't have berry desserts three or four times a week. Yet, she dislikes repeating even their favorite dishes on her menus too often. Having served berries with cream, with ice cream in ice-box cake and shortcake and tarts, she appeals for new variants of strawberry desserts.

KAREN HOLLIS

Can you help her? This is a good time for us all to get together and exchange the best recipes we know and discover how many ways there are of serving this most delicious fruit.

In the past few weeks I have given you strawberry recipes of my own, so to-day I am going to give you two excellent recipes of Mrs. Alexander George's. But before describing how to make her Washington strawberry pie I am going to tell you about an ingenious baking pan for cakes that hold fruit or custard puddings that is ideal to use in cooking Washington pies.

This pan, or rather these pans, are made up of a rather deep cake pan and a pie pan, which, when inverted, fits just inside it. The cake batter is poured over the inverted pie pan. When it is baked and turned out, there is a big cavity to hold the filling, which is infinitely more satisfactory than having it merely heaped on top. If you have a pie tin which will fit inside a cake pan, try using it in this way when making Washington pie.

WASHINGTON STRAWBERRY PIE

4 tablespoons butter
½ cup sugar
1 egg
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
3 cups berries, washed and hulled
1-3 cup confectioner's sugar
1 cup whipped cream

Cream butter and sugar. Add egg, milk, vanilla, salt, flour and baking powder and beat for three minutes. Pour in cake pan and bake for twenty-five minutes in moderately slow oven. Turn out and let cool. Spread top (or fill cavity if you have used the upturned pie tin) with berries mixed with confectioner's sugar. Cover with whipped cream and serve.

Another recipe of Mrs. George's which you will want to try is this one:

STRAWBERRY MERINGUE PIE

1 baked pie shell
3 cups washed and hulled berries
½ cup sugar
3 egg whites
¼ cup confectioner's sugar
½ teaspoon lemon extract

Mix berries and one-half cup of sugar. Pour into baked pie shell. Beat egg whites until very stiff, add confectioner's sugar and beat until creamy. Add lemon extract. Roughly spread egg white mixture over the berries. Bake for twenty-minutes in a slow oven. If the berries are a little tart, more sugar will be required

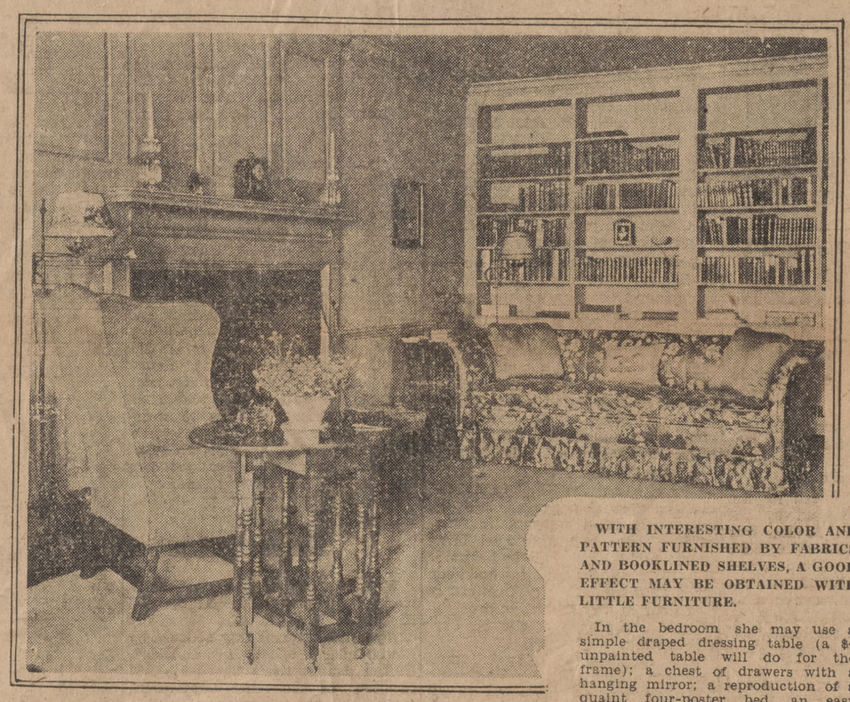
Modernizing the Home

A Right Start Is Most Important

By Alma Zaiss



WITH INTERESTING COLOR AND PATTERN FURNISHED BY FABRICS AND BOOKLINED SHELVES, A GOOD EFFECT MAY BE OBTAINED WITH LITTLE FURNITURE.

Dear Miss Zaiss:

I will soon have to furnish a three-room apartment and have about $560 to work with. Honestly, when I go around and look for things I come home just sick with disappointment; everything that is really good looking is so far beyond my price. I've tried to keep still about it to my husband because he really can't give me any more to spend just now, and also he is dead set against going into debt for things we can't afford.

I do not mean to complain, Miss Zaiss, but only hope you can see how hard this problem is for me. We have both been working since our marriage a year ago and living in a one-room furnished apartment. Getting the three rooms and our own things is a big improvement for us, and I am grateful for it and would dearly love to do my part right, as it means so much to both of us.

We are taking the apartment on a sub-lease in June. It is in an old building, but very nice and well kept up and I think could be made very homey. If you could do anything to help me even a little bit about shopping and planning I'd be grateful and will work hard to carry out your directions. My heart isn't set on any special kind of furniture, just so it is comfortable and home-like and refined looking. I send a floor plan of the living room, which is the most important. Thank you for any advice you will give. (Mrs.) R. H. J.

Buy According to a Definite Plan

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

WITH June—the month of marriages and home-furnishing inspiration—so close at hand, it behooves us to give public attention to such letters as Mrs. J. has written.

Less than $600 is indeed a small sum upon which to furnish a pretty apartment, but of course the deed can be done, if one shops wisely. And even if one must confess no talent at all for the task, it still can be successfully accomplished by laying the problem frankly before an interior decorator or the adviser which the better stores maintain for the benefit of their customers. No matter how large or how small the investment, better results are always obtained when buying is conducted according to a good general plan. And it is the special business of these decoration advisers to outline attractive schemes that come within the limits prescribed by the prospective customer.

A few general points which should be carefully considered by Mrs. J. and those who have similar problems are the following:

When purchasing new furniture for a small apartment, it is often a good policy to see that the different pieces are more or less related—although by no means belonging to "sets." That is to say * * * If Mrs. J. is fond of colonial or eighteenth century furniture, she can find many good reproductions of this period at reasonable prices. As the nucleus of her living room, she might have a sofa or couch, a medium-sized overstuffed chair and an open arm chair with upholstered back and seat. A slant-top desk with a rush-bottom chair and perhaps a nest of fair sized tables, which for the present could be used as separate end tables at convenient places, might complete the furnishings for this room.

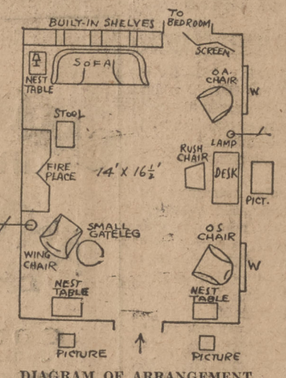


DIAGRAM OF ARRANGEMENT

If she is handy with the needle, Mrs. J. may make inexpensive chintz or cretonne over-curtains and slip-covers for the upholstered furniture which can be bought in the muslin at a saving. Then, in the dinette she could have a pretty gateleg table or dropleaf table and three ladder-back chairs (the desk chair to be utilized as the extra seat for dining.)

If crestonne or chintz in the colors mentioned is difficult to get, almost any attractive pattern that harmonizes with brown and ivory can be substituted. The orange and blue-green tones are particularly pleasing without being garish. Coral and blue-green are equally good; likewise yellow and blue with a touch of rich, mellow red. We cannot venture too far into the field of unusual color and pattern, for good examples are not to be found at the low price imposed upon us by the budget.

Accessories should include a few good pictures or reproductions of fine paintings; a bright pottery bowl or two filled with flowers and such intimate things as smoking articles or a work-basket, if well chosen in color and design, would also make definite artistic contributions to the general scheme.

With these few practical suggestions to guide her, provided she is willing to hunt for good values, Mrs. J. should be able to formulate an attractive plan without departing from her husband's very good determination to avoid going into debt for his home.

The dressing table may be draped with inexpensive chintz and the same fabric used to cover the chair. A candlewick spread would be charming for the bed and curtains of simple ruffled swiss or voile will be quite sufficient at the windows. For the time being this room will be satisfied, and dressed in good taste, if one large oval rag rug, or several smaller ones, be used upon the floor.

If Mrs. J. does not care for the period mentioned, the same principle can be carried out in other types of furniture, its chief advantage being that planning in this way permits an interchange of furniture in the different rooms and gives a more unified effect in small apartments. Then, as the household grows, it leaves no hodgepodge of miscellaneous pieces to be fitted into the changing scheme or discarded as a total loss.

With less than $600 to spend there can be no attempt at grandeur in the home to be equipped by Mrs. J. She must select simple, well-made furniture that is homelike and comfortable, choose simple, long-wearing fabrics * * * such excellent materials as cretonne, linen, antique satin, velveteen or jute damask or some of the charming and inexpensive modern fabrics developed in cotton. She should resolutely avoid imitation silks and satins, brocaded velvets, tapestries and the like, for the budget will not allow for them in good quality, and in cheap grades they are in extremely poor taste.

Another good point to remember is the decorative value of books and the well-furnished effect which built-in shelves impart to a room at a nominal cost. The illustration shows a very homelike setting, in which but two important pieces of furniture and two incidental tables are shown. The good result is due primarily to the bookshelves and the friendly color and pattern introduced by the slip-covered sofa.

Mrs. J. has not asked for a color scheme, and we do not know whether she has definite ideas on the subject. If walls are cream or beige, one good combination would be soft walnut brown for the rug; cretonne or chintz having a turquoise ground with a pattern in wood colors, tangerine and gold, to be used for overcurtains and covers for the sofa and one chair; blue-green for another chair; old gold tones for the third. Lamps of turquoise and orange-gold pottery, with plain parchment or pleated shades; a lacquer-red box or bowl somewhere in evidence; old gold pillows on the sofa; many colored books on the shelves.

Wall Pockets

WROUGHT IRON wall pockets come in diverse shapes, scrolls, antique designs and graceful patterns, with attached pots wherein to place pots of ivy, vinca, wandering Jew and other trailing house vines. These contribute much to the hominess of an apartment room and the plants require little care. Wall pockets in several metropolitan shops can be obtained in the black or green finishes and are priced moderately.

Think It Over

By Alfalfa Smith

IF YOU have a son, husband, brother or sweetheart who is out of a job, I beg of you do one of two things: Either encourage him and prove to him that somewhere in this world there is a job waiting for him and that "he that seeketh findeth," or get good and mad and "light into him."

I know a woman who got mad at her son after he had been out of a job six months and what she said to him was a-plenty. He went out the next day and got a GOOD job.

Oh, Go to Bed

"DAD, I wish I were a busboy."

"You wish you were a busboy; why on earth do wish that?"

"So I could ride free in the bus."

"But a busboy doesn't ride in a bus, and is seldom a boy."

"What does he do?"

"He works in a restaurant, clearing tables and doing other work to help the waiters."

"Well, why do they call him a busboy?"

"Oh, go to bed."

Ways of Storing Fur Pieces

THE method of storing the furs should be decided by individual experience. One woman keeps her fur coat and her fur scarves hanging in the closet which is used daily. She uses no moth repellent, and the only care they receive is an occasional thorough shaking. Another woman merely puts camphor gum and a few cloves in with her furs and ties them up in newspaper. Many women keep their furs secure in the prepared paper bags sold for this purpose. Thousands of women think the only safe way is to place their furs in storage with some reliable firm.

There are various ways of protecting furs and all are equally effectual, so if your way has proven successful, continue that method. If you are caring for your furs at home, be sure they are thoroughly dusted; brush the fur the wrong way and shake thoroughly then beat from the inside in the open air before putting them away.

Remove grease spots with benzine, turpentine or spirits of ether, using cotton batting to apply it.

A Porch Suggestion

A RUSTIC screen at one end of the porch will add materially to the beauty of this summer living room. This can readily be made by the handy man of the house.

It is just a high framework with a strip of wood and braces at the bottom for a firm standing base. The frame is filled inside in lattice fashion. Casters will make it possible to move this screen wherever needed to exclude the sun.

Paint the screen white and attach six or more painted or whitewashed flower pots containing English ivy. To do this put iron hooks in the screen and hang the pots on these by means of wire under the top flange of the pot and a loop at the end.

CONTEMPT OF CARTOONISTS

A NEWSPAPER cartoonist in Los Angeles has been charged with contempt for cartooning the District Attorney. This is getting to be a fine country when they can haul you into court for that.

JUDGE—Next case. The Government vs. Bertram Loomish. Prisoner, are you guilty or not?

PRISONER—Not guilty.

JUDGE—What is your occupation?

PRISONER—I draw cartoons for the Daily Howitzer.

JUDGE — You are charged with making unflattering drawings of various and sundry persons. Mr. District Attorney, what are the specifications?

DISTRICT ATTORNEY—On March 27 he drew a picture of a United States Senator with a quart bottle sticking out of his hip pocket.

PRISONER—That was artistic exaggeration, Your Honor. It should only have been a pint.

D. A.—On March 31 he had a cartoon disrespectful of President Hoover.

JUDGE—How so?

D. A.—Well, it showed Mr. Hoover trying to move a G. O. P. elephant with a spear. You would get the impression the President was cruel to animals, whereas he is very kind. Besides, he made Mr. Hoover look kind of fat, when every one knows he's lost eight pounds tossing a medicine ball. It was infamous!

* * *

JUDGE—What else?

D. A.—On April 5 he made a very libelous drawing of Henry Ford. It showed Mr. Ford smelling the breath of his workmen as they filed into the factory. It gives the impression Mr. Ford employs men who have halitosis.

JUDGE—That's pretty serious.

D. A.—Then on May 10 he drew an outrageous picture of Bishop Cannon all tangled up with ticker tape. The tape was even in the Bishop's ears. Things like that can't go on.

JUDGE—You're darned right they can't go on. Not in this court, anyway. Any other violations?

D. A.—Well, in one of his other carttons he spelled cabbage with a "K."

JUDGE—That's bad business. I can't let a man like that loose on society, inflaming the public mind. Loomish, I'll send you up for ninety days. And when you get out you better take up sign painting or something. If I catch you drawing any more cartoons I'll put you in the jug again.

PRISONER—Yes, Your Honor.

* * *

JUDGE—Mr. District Attorney, while I'm at it I may as well clean up this whole rotten business. Only last week I saw a comic strip where a great big brute was pounding a little guy with a marlin spike. When he got through, in the last picture, the little guy had two black eyes and his tall silk hat was smashed.

D. A.—That case was never called to my attention, Your Honor.

JUDGE—Well, I'm calling it to your attention now. I'm issuing a bench warrant for the artist that drew that strip and I want you to bring him in here for felonious assault.

D. A.—Yes, Your Honor.

JUDGE—And another thing, while I'm on the subject. Too many of these cartoonists portray a dry as a long, thin, underfed man with a dilapidated tall hat, a long nose and a baggy umbrella. I warn them hereafter I want a dry pictured as a well built and handsome citizen, with a snub nose, if possible. And I want him wearing a new straw hat! I'll show these cartoonists this is a free country.

THIS AND THAT

Until the courts pass on Grover's new traffic interpretations, you'd better walk slowly past schoolhouses, too.

The Methodist Conference has whitewashed the gambling charge against Bishop Cannon. Doubtless on the grounds it was only a drop in the bucket shop.

A new gusher in Okalhoma is blowing a stream of oil, gas and sand mixed. Well, it's got two ingredients of a lettuce salad.

Six hundred New York barbers laid down their tools and walked out after shaving the customers when they might have struck while the towel was hot.

Now that the winter season is over, the principal industry of Miami seems to be pinching Al Capone.

A State that markets so much fruit should treat Al with more consideration. He's just the man to develop a Florida pineapple industry.

When you have a bon voyage party on the Graf Zeppelin, we suppose they frisk you for pocket lighters.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

GOLDEN DAWN

by MARC O'FARRELL

Copyright 1930, Warner Bros. Pictures Inc.
This story is based on Warner Bros. Vitaphone production of the play by Otto Harbach and Oscar Hammerstein II.

SYNOPSIS

Fair-skinned Dawn, mystery girl, becomes the bride of the black god Malunghu, against her wishes. Her sweetheart, Tom Allen, is transported from his plantation in the British East African Protectorate, by the Germans, at the instigation of Shep Keyes, whip-wielding bully of the natives. Shep has designs on Dawn, and has been badly worsted in a fierce physical encounter with Tom. Back in England, Tom enlists for colonial service. Without bloodshed, the British recapture their territory. Shep is placed under arrest, at the moment when he has forced Dawn to accompany him into the jungle.

INSTALLMENT TWENTY-FIVE

The melancholy melody of the tom-tom and pipe hung over the conference of the four. Judson was plainly puzzled as to how best to proceed. Already irked by being sent to this undesirable command, he was unable to work up a ready sympathy for the unfortunate blacks. Still, always a dutiful soldier, he knew some action on his part was urgent. Presently Johanna stepped in.

"Hasmali is on the way to see you," she said timidly.

The Colonel's fleshy face became rounder in surprise. "And who," he asked gently, "in the name of all African nonsense is Hasmali?"

"Aw, he's the messenger of

Installment 25—Caption Pub U

Malunghu," Blink said, "an errand boy, sort of. Nutty on this voodoo stuff."

"Ah," the Colonel comprehended, "a delegate. When he arrives I'll see him."

Johanna bowed her thanks. She started for the door, hesitated and turned. The Colonel stared at her. "Is there anything more you wish to say?" he asked.

"I just wondered," she said falteringly, "if you couldn't do something to stop these funerals. The natives are frightened."

The Colonel's perplexity gave way to exasperation. "I'm only the commander here," he informed the girl patiently. "The weather, it seems, doesn't recognize British authority."

Graciously Eric came to Johanna's rescue. "As a matter of fact, Colonel Judson, we are all pretty fortunate that the natives don't know whether to blame this drought on yo British or that little white goddess of theirs."

"Goddess?" echoed Judson. "What could she have to do with it?"

Thoroughly, with great earnestness, Eric explained that in trouble the natives immediately appealed to their goddess for relief. Their Thabu, he said, was worshipped as an exalted creature capable of working miracles. Her prayer to Malunghu was regarded as a direct cure-all.

"In their heathen superstitious mind," he finished, "she is everything. Everything."

"That's right," Blink agreed. "It's this way: Malunghu, the black god, is supposed to turn on the rain, as I get it. Well, the natives figure that his bride ought to be able to make her hubby do what she wants him to—at least for the first year," he added, venturing a wan joke.

In keeping with the immortal custom of wives, Johanna resented Blink's conclusions. "You won't do as I ask, and we've been married only a year."

Unmindful of this mild domestic upheaval, Eric and the Colonel continued to seek some answer to the urgent problems.

"Our governments at least have one basis of agreement," said Eric sighing.

Judson nodded, "Yes, in their equal indifference as to what is happening in Africa." He, too, sighed, then added, "I've been a little indifferent myself, but I can see where I was wrong. Emphatically, something has got to be done. And now."

"The natives, in their present mood, are equal to anything from a camp meeting to a massacre," Eric observed.

As if to add to the solemnity of Eric's words, the native music issued from the pipes and tom-toms in swelling volume. Uneasily, the officers quitted Judson's quarters and crossed to the veranda of the canteen, their ugly mood apparent even at a distance.

As if awaiting an agreed signal, the blacks halted a short distance from the veranda. At first this puzzled Eric, but a moment later he realized that they were awaiting their spokesman. He communicated his belief to Judson, who now was frankly worried.

Soon Hasmali appeared. With mingled amusement and uneasiness, the whites observed Shep among the approaching natives. No longer was he splendid in the garments of the German military, but wore the jungle head-dress and loin cloth of the other natives. It was also to be perceived that Shep was angry about something. This was soon discovered to be caused by the taunts of a native urchin.

"The whip man," jeered the lad, "that takes off his uniform. Now he is native like the rest of us, when the English soldiers come."

Shep lunged toward the boy, who darted away nimbly, still screaming his taunts. Shep was recalled by a hushed reprimand from Hasmali, a reprimand which informed Eric that Hasmali was the accepted leader. Colonel Judson stepped to the foot of the stairs leading to the veranda to greet Hasmali.

"Oh, great White Chief," began Hasmali with exaggerated humility, "I come to ask for mercy."

The Colonel was upset by the priest's unexpected manner. "Why do you come to me for mercy?"

"The masters who rule over us," continued Hasmali, ignoring the British officer's question, "have mercy! have mercy!"

"Mercy! Mercy!" chorused the natives, ending their plea with a weird cry that sounded like "Ay—ee—ay—ee."

This direct appeal to the whites puzzled even Eric. He turned to Blink and whispered an inquiry as to how he accounted for the visit. Blink stared at the German, incredulous.

"Don't you get it?" Eric shook his head. "Why," continued Blink, "they're passing the buck. They're just trying to convince Colonel Judson that they regard him as the highest power around these parts. They're through with Dawn, see? She failed to send the rain and they're trying to throw her down."

"Renounce her as their goddess!" exclaimed Eric. "Why that means —" He paused, astounded at the import of the ceremony before him. "That means she is to be sacrificed!" he ended.

Blink shrugged uneasily and threw up his hands in a gesture of helplessness. "What can we do? These blacks want the Colonel to promise them something, see? If he fails to come through—well, it'll be just too bad."

"But meantime," said Eric, unable to forget Dawn, "the girl is in danger."

Blink nodded. Eric turned to Johanna, who was plainly disturbed. She read Eric's question in his eyes and nodded slowly, pityingly.

"They'll burn her on the Hill of Skulls," she said.

Once Hasmali had directed a personal appeal to Colonel Judson to end the drought, he fell back on the sing-song phrases of the jungle prayers. Already at loss as to how he was to bestow upon Hasmali the mercy the latter had so piteously entreated, the British commander was further confounded by the meaningless supplication they addressed to him.

As one man the natives, brightly daubed with their war paint, chanted the monotonous prayer. In their tones there appeared to Colonel Judson a sort of threat. He began to suspect that the war paint, supposedly worn in reverence of their dead, had been smeared on their naked backs to warn him.

"I am not precisely aware," he said to Hasmali, "what it is you wish me to do."

The natives' priest looked stern. "The rain do not fall, the heat consumes all," he intoned, his eyes upturned to Heaven.

Impatiently, Judson grunted. There was no reasoning with the men, he perceived. They were just what they seemed—frustrated savages.

It occurred to Judson that Shep Keyes, however villainous he might be, was at least sensible enough to realize that no human action is able to either begin or end a drought. He turned to Shep. But the whip man clearly conveyed that he had no intention of interceding.

"De cattle grow lean in de land," said Shep mournfully. "De corn stands withered and dry. De heat wit' no breezes is fanned; in vain on Malunghu we cry."

RIVER RESORTS WILL OPEN TODAY

RIO NIDO, May 28.—Four days and nights of festivities, including dancing, carnivals, receptions, parties, acquatic sports, swimming and diving exhibitions on the Russian river, and parades, will feature the formal opening of the 1930 summer season here starting tomorrow and continuing to Sunday, June 1, inclusive. An elaborate program of events for the four days celebration was announced today by Duncan Smith, chairman, and Harry Harris, vice-chairman of the citizens' committee in charge of the season's opening festivities.

Numerous resort cities and summer communities along the Russian river and adjacent to Rio Nido will join with the local committees in sponsoring the many activities planned here from May 29 to June 1, local committee workers stated today.

Accommodations are available at Rio Nido for several thousand additional visitors, and the community is preparing for a record-breaking season's opening crowd.

At the two Rio Nido beaches swimming and diving exhibitions and canoe races will be held daily, under the direction of Deputy Sheriff Louis L. Borella.

On the highway and in the redwood grove here, carnival, parades and receptions will be afternoon features; and at night, the great bonfire will illuminate the skies, and the entertainers and musicians will hold forth every evening.

The newly decorated open-air Rio Nido ballroom will be the scene of nightly dances; and Chuck Huggins and his famed University orchestra, recognized as legitimate successors to the popular Horace Heidt and his world renowned Californians, will play the latest dance music. Soloists in the band will offer vocal selections and novel specialties each evening.

Special train and bus service will be available for the four days season's opening festivities; and the automobile highways into Rio Nido are in perfect shape.

DEATH TOLL IN INDIA RIOT INCREASES

BOMBAY, May 28.—UP—Violence continued between striking dockworkers and strike breakers at Rangoon, Burma, today and tonight while passions ebbed to the smouldering stage in strife-torn Bombay, Lucknow and Dacca.

Military police attempting to quell tonight's disturbances were stoned, whereupon they fired, killing two rioters and bringing the death toll to 65 since the fighting started Monday.

Casualty lists in the four disturbed cities were estimated tonight as follows, although 100 of the injured at Rangoon are expected to die:

	Dead	Injured
Rangoon	65	1,000
Dacca	14	26
Bombay	4	79
Lucknow	4	30
Totals	88	1,135

Uncounted Dead

In addition there were believed to be many uncounted dead and wounded in Rangoon, and scores were injured in raids on the Wadala and Wadia salt depots by independence volunteers here Sunday. At least 16 police officers were among the injured here and at least 14 were on the Lucknow wounded list.

Three of the four main riots had their inception in causes other than the disobedience movement, but the Gandhi followers are attempting to capitalize on the fact that government police fired on mobs in all four cities.

The Bombay 'war council' of congress volunteers considered today the renewal of mass raids on the Wadala salt works and the defiance of additional British laws.

No Food

The congress committee decided to send 27 volunteers tonight to Holapur, where martial law was in effect folowing Hindu riots which caused the evacuation of European women and children. The volunteers were to raise their independence flag.

Meantime groups of volunteers moved from the Guperat district toward Dharasana, scene of last week's battles between police and salt raiders. Groups of volunteers marching from Ahmedabad to Dharasana were arrested.

Word from Rangoon said the food situation was desperate as the rioting continued there. Bazaars remained closed to prevent looting. Some Europeans were attacked.

BRITISH CUT SALARY OF OFFICERS

LONDON, May 28.—UP— The House of Commons by a vote of 270 to 241 late tonight rejected a motion to reduce the salary of J. H. Thomas, Lord Privy seal and unofficial minister of the employment. The rejection was tantamount to a vote of confidence in the government's unemployment policy.

Many Liberals abstained from voting, but the government's majority—nearly twice as great as in a similar victory last week—was insured when left-wing Laborites supported the government after a hot seven-hour debate. Wild cheers from the Labor benches marked the vote ,which had been heralded as a crucial test of the labor strength.

Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald cited unemployment figures in the tariff-protected United States in parrying the attacks on the issue of jobless.

MacDonald who recently assumed chairmanship of the cabinet's unemployment committee to bolster his government against tonight's criticism ,admitted the seriousness of conditions in Britain, but said they were only temporary and could not be avoded. He estimated the workless in the United States at between 5,000,000 and 6,000,000, or about three times as many as in Great Britain.

LOCAL SCOTS TO HOLD SOCIAL NIGHT

In the absence of President Peter MacCallum, vice president Roderick MacLennan presided at last night's business meeting of the St. Andrew's society of Richmond and vicinity in the Richmond clubhouse.

It was announced that the social night to be held June 11 would be under the direction of those members who boast of Glasgow as their natal soil. The committee is composed of Alexander Dawson, Mrs. Roderick MacLennan, Arthur Murray, W. Greenlees and W. MacDonald.

The committee is busy making arrangements for the affair and promise to have an enjoyable program and a delicious banquet for the members. Dancing will conclude the evening.

George Black and George Smith, St. Andrew's committeemen working on the proposed horseshoe tournamnt with the Gladstone Lodge Sons of St. George, pronounce satisfactory progress in preparing the rules and regulations for the contest.

In other words, a man 40 pounds overweight at this age has only 60% of the expectancy of life of a man of normal weight. TRAMPLING ART FOR PROFITS

FOR all its virtues, modern industrialism can run amuck under the spur of greed for profits. Witness the ruin threatening the Art of Music.

300 musicians in Hollywood supply all the "music" offered in thousands of theatres. Can such a tiny reservoir of talent nurture artistic progress?

The true function of the machine is to increase the value of the product fed into it—not to debase it. Therefore mechanical music, as a substitute for Living Music, is a spurious form of progress—Like a loom converting good wool into shoddy.

The grind organ, however operated, is a grind organ still. For music is an emotional art, a form of social intercourse, and hence dependent upon human contact.

Who profits by the elimination of genuine music from the theatre? Not the music-loving public! Not the musician!

If you agree that theatre patrons are entitled to real music—in addition to talking and sound motion pictures, for the price they pay—HELP SAVE THE ART FROM RUIN. Enroll with millions of others in the Music Defense League. When the public's voice is raised its will must be served!
